

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. PREFACE.

As its title implies, this manual is designed, not to take the place of books based on the old methods of Latin Composition, but to supplement them. The need for such a supplement has seemed apparent to me in my visits to secondary schools.

The two most common methods of study are (1) the use of sentences based on a text to which the student has access, and (2) grammatical reviews in which the work is arranged according to topics. A student put to the test, after completing one or both methods, will generally be found lacking in concrete knowledge; the first method gives too much help, and the second is so long in its completion that many points are forgotten before the end is reached.

As a corrective for this state of affairs, chance collections of examination papers are often used, but this is not a wholly satisfactory expedient. This book offers a substitute in the shape of examination papers which, in a small compass and systematically, cover the ninety-one points of Latin syntax outlined in the following Grammatical Introduction. The sentences, for the most part, are based closely upon the Orations and Philosophical Works of Cicero. The division into Lessons is one of convenience merely; the real units are the Parts. Each of the six Parts gives the student a chance to illustrate, at least once, all the points outlined in the Grammatical Introduction, thus providing for six complete examinations on the essential principles of Latin grammar. The order in which the principles occur varies from Part to Part, as does also the guise in which they appear, the aim being to make the student recognize the constructions on their own merits, with a minimum of outside help. Where it seemed necessary, a reference to the Grammatical Introduction has been given. The hints on vocabulary in the footnotes should be followed, for the principle to be illustrated sometimes depends upon the use of the word suggested.

If, as one Part is completed, the student be required to put special study on the places where he has shown weakness, before passing to another, he ought, at the end of the work, to have a grasp on the essential principles of Latin Syntax. To some, this ideal may seem too low, but those whose duty it is to look over papers presented at college entrance examinations would not be sorry to find a large decrease in the number of those who think that the infinitive is the mode of purpose in Latin and that ut and the subjunctive is the proper form for indirect discourse.

I am deeply indebted to Professor C. E. Bennett for helpful suggestions on the Grammatical Introduction.

LATIN COMPOSITION.

GRAMMATICAL INTRODUCTION.

SYNTAX OF THE CASES.

I. Accusative Case.

1. Extent of Time and Space. (1¹)

Note that this construction occurs with the participle nātus in expressions of age.

B.² 181; G. 334 ff.; A. 256-257; H. 417.

2. Double Accusative. (2)

Used with verbs of Teaching, Asking, Demanding, and Concealing (cēlō). In the passive, the accusative of the person becomes the subject, and the accusative of the thing is retained.

B. 178; G. 339; A. 239. 2. c; H. 411.

3. Accusative of Result Produced (in its use as Cognate Accusative). (3)

B. 176. 4; G. 333. 2; A. 238 and b; H. 409.

4. Accusative of Exclamation. (4)

B. 183; G. 343. 1; A. 240. d; H. 421.

¹ In the Lessons, references are made to the Grammatical Introduction according to the marginal figures at the right.

² These abbreviations refer respectively to the grammars of Bennett, Gildersleeve, Allen and Greenough, and Harkness (Complete Edition).

II. Dative Case.

1. Indirect Object with Transitive Verbs. (5)

B. 187. I.; G. 345; A. 225; H. 424.

2. Indirect Object with Intransitive Verbs. (6)

Such as signify 'to favor, help, please,' etc.

B. 187. II. a; G. 346; A. 227; H. 426.

(a) Impersonal construction in the passive, and dative retained. (7)

B. 187. II. b; G. 346. R. 1; A. 230; H. 426. 3.

(b) Verbs compounded with ad, ante, con, etc. (8)

B. 187. III.; G. 347; A. 228; H. 429.

3. Dative of Reference. (9)

B. 188. I.; G. 350 ff.; A. 235; H. 425. 2.

(a) Expressing Separation. (10)

B. 188. 2. d; G. 347. R. 5; A. 229; H. 429. 2.

4. Dative of Possessor. (11)

B. 190; G. 349; A. 231; H. 430.

5. Dative of the Agent. (12)

Regularly used with the gerundive; sometimes with the compound tenses of the passive voice.

B. 189; G. 354-355; A. 232 and a; H. 431.

(a) Direct Agency expressed also by the Ablative with ā or ab. (13)

B. 216; G. 401; A. 246; H. 468.

(b) Intermediate Agency, expressed by the Accusative with per. (14)

G. 401; A. 246. b; H. 468. 3.

6. Dative of Purpose (Service). (15)

Much used in connection with another dative of the person.

B. 191. 2; G. 356; A. 233. a; H. 433.

7. Dative with Adjectives denoting Fitness, Nearness, Likeness, etc. (16)

B. 192; G. 359; A. 234; H. 434.

III. Genitive Case.

1. Possessive Genitive.

(a) meus, tuus, etc., used for the possessive genitive of personal and reflexive pronouns. (17)

G. 362. R. 1; A. 214. a. 2; H. 440. 1. N. 2.

(b) Possessive genitive in the predicate when the subject of the sentence is an infinitive. (18)

B. 198. 3; G. 366. R. 2; A. 214. d; H. 439. 5.

2. Genitive of Quality or Characteristic. (19)

Used with a modifier; often in the predicate; applied generally to permanent or essential characteristics.

B. 203. 1. 2; G. 365; A. 215; H. 440. 3.

3. Genitive of Value or Price. (20)

Verbs of Buying have the price expressed by the genitive only in the case of tanti, quantī, plūris, and minōris; otherwise the ablative is used. Other genitives also, as parvī, māgnī, etc., are found with Verbs of Valuing.

B. 203. 3. 4; G. 379; A. 252. a. b; H. 448. 1 and 4.

4. Genitive of the Whole (Partitive Genitive). (21)

B. 201; G. 367; A. 216; H. 441.

(a) Nostrū and vestrū, Genitives of the Whole; nostrī and vestrī, Objective. (22)

B. 242. 2; G. 364. R.; A. 99. b. c; H. 175. 2.

5. Genitive with Adjectives. (23)

Mostly Objective; sometimes of Reference (Specification).

B. 204; G. 374; A. 218; H. 450.

(a) With similis. (24)

Genitive commonly used when the reference is to living objects; both genitive and dative of inanimate things.

B. 204. 3; G. 359. N. 4; A. 234. d. 2; H. 435. 4. N.

6. Genitive with Verbs.

(a) Of Remembering and Forgetting. (25)

B. 206; G. 376; A. 219; H. 454.

(b) Of Judicial Action. (26)

B. 208; G. 378; A. 220; H. 456.

(c) With Impersonal Verbs, such as miseret. (27)

B. 209; G. 377; A. 221. b; H. 457.

(d) With Interest (and Rēfert). (28)

Referring to the first or second person, either verb is used with meā, tuā, etc.; so also the reflexive suā. Referring to the third person, interest is used with the genitive.

B. 211; G. 381; A. 222; H. 449.

IV. Ablative Case.

1. Ablative of Separation. (29)

A preposition is used when the ablative denotes a person, and when the verb is compounded with ab, dē, dis, sē, or ex.

B. 214; G. 390; A. 243; H. 461.

2. Ablative of Source. (30)

B. 215; cf. G. 395; A. 244; H. 467.

3. With a Comparative. (31)

Used, in general, only when the first of the things compared is in the nominative or accusative case.

B. 217; G. 398; A. 247; H. 471.

4. Ablative of Accompaniment. (32)

Cum is regularly used with this ablative; may be omitted in military phrases when the noun is modified by something else than a numeral.

B. 222; G. 392; A. 248. a; H. 473. 1.

5. Ablative of Quality or Characteristic. (33)

Used with a modifier. In many cases not to be distinguished from the corresponding use of the genitive; it is also used of bodily characteristics.

B. 224; G. 400; A. 251; H. 473. 2.

6. Ablative of Manner and of Attendant Circumstance. (34)

'Manner' is differentiated from 'Attendant Circumstance' by the fact that it is regularly restricted to abstract words, e.g. celeritāte, virtūte, etc. An Ablative of Manner requires cum, unless the noun has an attribute.

B. 220-221; G. 399; A. 248; H. 473, 3.

7. Ablative of Cause. (35)

B. 219; G. 408; A. 245; H. 475.

(a) With gaudeō, laetor, doleō, etc. (36)

B. 219. 1; G. 408; A. 254. b; H. 475.

8. Ablative of Means. (37)

B. 218; G. 401; A. 248. c; H. 476.

(a) With utor, fruor, etc. (38)

B. 218. 1; G. 407; A. 249 and n.; H. 477.

(b) With opus (rarely usus). (39)

B. 218. 2; G. 406; A. 243. e; H. 477. III.

(c) With Verbs of Abounding and Adjectives of Plenty. (40)

B. 218. 8; G. 405; A. 248. c. 2; H. 477. II.

(d) Ablative of Price. (41)

Under this heading are included māgnō, plūrinō, parvō, minimō, which express Indefinite Price.

B. 225; G. 404; A. 252; H. 478.

(e) With contentus, frētus, praeditus. (42)

B. 218. 3; G. 401. n. 6; A. 254. b. 2; H. 476. 1.

9. Ablative of Degree of Difference. (43)

B. 223; G. 403; A. 250; H. 479.

10. Ablative of Specification. (44)

B. 226; G. 397; A. 253; H. 480.

(a) With dignus and indignus. (45)

B. 226. 2; G. 397. n. 2; A. 245. a; H. 481.

(b) Supines in -ū. (46)

B. 340. 2; G. 436 and n. 2; A. 303; H. 635.

11. Ablative of Place Where. (47)

Preposition is omitted when the noun is modified by such adjectives as tōtus, omnis, etc., and when the idea is figurative rather than literal.

B. 228; G. 385, 388–389; A. 254, 258 f. 2; H. 483, 485. 1. 2.

12. Ablative of Time When and Within Which. (48)

B. 230–231; G. 393; A. 256; H. 486.

(a) Dating.

(49)

If the English date coincides with the Kalends, Nones, or Ides, the Ablative of Time When is used. If it falls on the day before any of these, pridiē or (in) ante diem is prefixed to the accusative. Other dates are reckoned as 'so many days before the Kalends,' etc., and are commonly written in an abbreviated form; e.g. VIII Kal. Oct. After finding the real number of days between the date in question and the Nones, Ides, or Kalends, it is necessary to add one day, for the Romans counted the day at both ends of a period of time. It should be noted that the Kalends are the first day of the month following the one in which the date falls; i.e. for purposes of dating, June 1, for instance, is May 32.

B. 371; G. Appendix; A. 376; H. 754.

13. Ablative Absolute.

(50)

B. 227; G. 409; A. 255; H. 489.

V. Motion to and from Towns and Small Islands;
also Domus and Rūs.

(a) Limit of Motion.

(51)

'Into the neighborhood of' may be expressed by ad and the accusative.

B. 182; G. 337; A. 258. b and n. 2; H. 418-419.

(b) Motion From.

(52)

B. 229. 1; G. 391; A. 258. a; H. 462 and 4.

SYNTAX OF THE VERB.

I. Subjunctive in Independent Sentences.

1. Non-interrogative.

(a) Volitive Subjunctive in its Hortatory, Jussive, and Concessive uses. (53)

B. 274-275; G. 263; A. 266; H. 559.

(b) Optative Subjunctive. (54)

B. 279; G. 260-261; A. 267; H. 558.

(c) Potential Subjunctive. (55)

B. 280; G. 257-258; A. 311; H. 552, 555, 556.

2. Interrogative.

(a) Deliberative Subjunctive. (56)

B. 277; G. 265; A. 268; H. 559. 4.

(b) Repudiating or Rejecting Questions.¹ (57)

These are questions of indignation or surprise, in which the speaker rejects the wish or thought of another, usually in his own behalf; more rarely, he speaks for another person.

B. 277; G. 259, 558; A. 268; H. 559. 5.

II. Prohibitions.

(58)

The common form is nōli (nōlite) with the infinitive; cavē nē with the subjunctive is sometimes used.

B. 276; G. 271-272; A. 269. a; H. 561.

¹ Most grammars make 57 a subordinate class of 56.

III. Substantive Clauses.

1. Of Result.

(59)

With verbs of Bringing to Pass, Happening, and Following.

B. 297; G. 553; A. 332; H. 571.

2. Developed from the Volitive.

(a) With quōminus and quīn after Verbs of Hindering and Preventing.

(60)

B. 295. 3; G. 549, 554; A. 331. e. 2, 332. g; H. 568. 8, 595. 2.

(b) After Verbs of Admonishing, Commanding, etc. (Substantive Purpose).

(61 a)

B. 295; G. 546; A. 331; H. 565.

3. Developed from the Optative.

(a) After Verbs of Wishing and Desiring (Substantive Purpose).

(61 b)

B. 296. 1; G. 546; A. 331; H. 565.

(b) Following Verbs of Fearing.

(62)

B. 296. 2; G. 550; A. 331 f.; H. 567.

IV. Purpose and Result.

1. Purpose.

(a) Ut, nē, quō, and quī, followed by the subjunctive.

(63)

Quō is generally chosen when there is a comparative in the purpose clause.

B. 282; G. 545; A. 317; H. 568.

(b) Supine in -um after Verbs of Motion.

(64)

B. 340; G. 435; A. 302; H. 633.

(c) Gerundive and Gerund. (65)

Genitive of either, with causā or grātiā.
Accusative of the gerundive with ad;
gerund so used only when the verb is intransitive.

B. 339. 2 and 6; G. 544. R. 2; A. 318;
H. 626. 3, 628.

2. Result. (66)

Subjunctive introduced by ut, ut nōn, and quā. 7

B. 284; G. 552; A. 319; H. 570.

V. Conditional Sentences.

1. Nothing implied as to the reality of the supposed case (Simple or Logical Conditions). (67)

B. 302; G. 595; A. 306-307; H. 574.

(a) When the subject is the indefinite second singular the present or perfect subjunctive is used in protasis. (68)

B. 302. 2; G. 595. R. 3; A. 309. a; H.
578, 2.

2. Supposed case represented as contingent
(Less Vivid Future or Ideal Conditions). (69)

B. 303; G. 596; A. 307. 2; H. 576.

3. Supposed case represented as contrary to fact (Unreal Conditions). (70)

B. 304; G. 597; A. 308; H. 579.

VI. Concession.

1. Cum with the Subjunctive. (71
B. 309. 3; G. 603; A. 326; H. 598.
2. Quamvis, licet, ut, and nē with Subjunctive. (72
B. 309. 1 and 4; G. 606-608; A. 313;
H. 586. II.
3. Quamquam (and tametsi) with the Indicative. (73
B. 309. 2; G. 604-605; A. 313. c and e;
H. 586. I.

VII. Causal Constructions.

1. Cum with Subjunctive. (74
B. 286. 2; G. 586; A. 326; H. 598.
2. Quod, Quia, and Quoniam with the Indicative and Subjunctive. (75
B. 286; G. 539; A. 321; H. 588. I, II.

VIII. Time Relations.

1. Postquam, Ubi, and Ut with the Indicative. (76
B. 287; G. 561-563; A. 324; H. 602.
2. Cum with the Indicative and Subjunctive. (77
B. 288; G. 580, 585; A. 325; H. 600.
3. Antequam and Priusquam with the Indicative and (rare) Subjunctive. (78
B. 291; G. 574-577; A. 327; H. 605.

4. Dum, Dōnec, and Quoad with the Subjunctive.

(79)

This mode is used when suspense or design is involved.

B. 293. III. 2; G. 572; A. 328; H. 603.
II. 2.

IX. Indirect Discourse.

1. Infinitive and Subject Accusative.

(80)

B. 314; G. 650; A. 336. 1; H. 642.

2. Tenses of the Infinitive.

(81)

B. 270; G. 529; A. 336. 3; H. 617 ff.

3. Subjunctive in Subordinate Clauses.

(82)

B. 314; G. 650; A. 336. 2; H. 643.

4. Conditional Sentences in Indirect Discourse.

(83)

B. 319 ff.; G. 656 ff.; A. 337; H. 646-648.

X. Miscellaneous.

1. Conditional Clauses of Comparison with Quāsi, Tamquam, etc.

(84)

Though the conditions are contrary to fact, Latin generally chooses the present and perfect subjunctive if the sequence allows.

B. 307; G. 602; A. 312; H. 584.

2. Proviso with Dum, Dummodo, and Modo.

(85)

B. 310; G. 573; A. 314; H. 587.

3. Quin with the Subjunctive after Negatives and Interrogatives implying a Negative. (86)

Under this heading are included the uses of quin which do not come under 60; the subjunctive expresses characteristic or result; sometimes the quin-clause follows such expressions as nōn dubitō.

B. 283. 4, 284. 3; G. 555. 2, 556, 632;
A. 319. d; H. 595.

4. Subjunctive of Characteristic. (87)

B. 283; G. 631; A. 320; H. 591.

5. Subjunctive of Indirect Question. (88)

B. 300; G. 467; A. 334; H. 649. II.

6. Subjunctive by Attraction. (89)

B. 324; G. 663; A. 342; H. 652.

7. Impersonal Use of Intransitive Verbs in Gerundive Construction. (90)

A transitive verb rarely follows the same rule.

B. 339. 4; G. 427. N. 4; A. 294. c. N.;
H. 621. 2.

8. Gerund and Gerundive used in Noun Constructions. (91)

B. 338-339; G. 425. 27; A. 297; H. 625.

LESSON 25.

1. When (cum) Scaevola had mentioned this, he told us the views⁹ of Laelius on friendship. 2. I do not fear that the philosophers will not praise me. 3. They are doing this to gain our favor.¹⁰ 4. What good (men) think, that is of the greatest moment¹¹ and weight. 5. We pardon the silence of these men. 6. If you falsely accuse any one, you injure yourself also. 7. Let us not wait until we are asked. 8. Though (cum) he had been bought, he did not dare to put in his veto.¹ 9. Those must² be pardoned who did nothing afterward. 10. I am so yielding by nature (lit. am of such mildness³ of disposition) that I cannot withstand his tears and prayers. 11. Though (licet) all dangers should impend, I shall aid and assist.⁴ 12. Before I proceeded to my defence, I made use⁵ of his confession.

LESSON 26.

1. Do you remember that on October 23d I said that you would be in arms on a certain day? 2. These (men), most friendly to us, took from him the consulship. 3. Sulla was deprived⁶ of a lofty⁷ position by reason of the hate of Apronius. 4. I shall tell you from what classes of men his forces are collected.⁸ 5. After he saw that the life of Sextius Roscius was guarded, he adopted⁹ a plan full of wickedness and audacity. 6. There are those who think it beneath them¹⁰ to come to the aid¹¹ of the weak.¹² 7. Although (quamquam) old age lacks immoderate feasts, it can yet enjoy¹³ moderate banquets. 8. I use Greek Caelius was not so crazy³ as to accuse another of bribery⁴ when he himself was guilty⁵ of the same crime. 11. What, therefore, was I to say? that I was a Roman? 12. The king not knowing which Orestes was, Pylades said he was Orestes. 13. I preferred that my opinion should be praised by all twenty days afterward.

LESSON 27.

1. As you broke down⁶ Catiline by my influence and (that) of the senate, so you shall soon hear that Antony has fallen.⁷ 2. So it came about that we inquired whether there was need of ships. 3. Confess that you sent to Rome grain bought for three hundred thousand sesterces. 4. Am I to doubt what you did when I see what you are doing? 5. In Greece he demanded money of the Greek officials. 6. If I shall have⁸ this power without danger to you or me (lit. your or my danger), I shall use it. 7. Do not act in such a way⁹ that a new and much more cruel proscription may seem to have come about through you. 8. Nor need¹⁰ the play¹¹ be acted through by the performer,¹² if only he be approved in

LESSON 28.

1. He could not be induced¹ to have his head covered (lit. be of covered² head). 2. At the banquet of Apronius was a Roman knight ninety years of age. 3. As I read, I am so moved that I fancy³ I can hear Cato himself speaking. 4. Do not think, therefore, that the king did this wrong. 5. He was, as I before said, at Naples, in that part of Italy which was most free from⁴ suspicion. 6. He is a man of most honorable and well-known⁵ lineage.⁶ 7. Nothing prevents his being happy. 8. But an old man has not even anything (quod) to hope for.⁷ 9. He sells a modius of grain for a denarius. 10. Perchance what I am about to say may seem wonderful to relate. 11. Was I to reject the good advice of those whose very⁸ faults the good should bear? 12. For we are not sending (a message) to Hannibal to withdraw from Saguntum. 13. 1. If he were living his hundredth year, would he be dissatisfied¹ with old age? 2. (It was) while (cum) Plato was present (that) he was speaking of friendship. 3. Imprudence is (a characteristic) of the young rather than of the old. 4. What shall I say of Paulus or Africanus? 5. They are waiting until the ambassadors set out. 6. For I do not fear that he will be persuaded. 7. You would have told me if you had thought it to your interest. 8. These men I shall never forget. 9. From all quarters,² they came to salute him, but none were admitted. 10. I prove you guilty,³ not only of dishonesty,⁴ but also of cruelty. 11. Why was he not present in person? Do you think because of some serious⁵ matter? 12. If you should take from me this evidence,⁶ there would still⁷ remain the testimony of the Gauls. 13. Can this light (of day) be pleasant to you, when (cum)⁸ you perceive that all know that you were in arms on December 30th?

Ruined men, with slaves like themselves, threaten the temples and buildings of the city. 5. O wretched day when Catiline was born! 6. You know that I was without experience² in these matters. 7. Worthy of friendship are those in whom there is a reason why they should be loved. 8. Pleasures are given up³ for the sake of gaining greater pleasures. 9. Would that the immortal gods would reserve this trophy⁴ for you, Scipio! 10. You can often tell from what quarter the storm is coming.⁵ 11. Nothing was so closed and hidden⁶ that it (quod) was not most open to his cupidity. 12. Old men, relying on their wisdom, delight in conversations with⁷ youths of intelligence (lit. endowed with intellect).

LESSON 31.

1. They think they will live their lives more safely⁸ under my protection.⁹ 2. It is worth while¹⁰ for me to undergo his hatred, provided that danger be warded off from you. 3. No one was troublesome¹¹ to Cicero either on December 1st, or on the 5th or 13th. 4. I shall have need of how many guards, if I shall once allow you to enter my house? 5. If all should be brought together into one place, they would not be worthy¹ to be compared with Servius Sulpicius. 6. So it happened that brave men, even though (tametsi) they had fought against one another, laid aside² hatred with their arms. 7. Before he hears that this province is decreed to him, he will crush the enemy. 8. He ordered the centurions to go home, and there had them killed³ before his own and his wife's eyes. 9. What is more pleasant than an old age loaded⁴ with honors? 10. He had no reason¹ to fear that he would not be heard. 11. I saw that that man had been taken away without whom the state could not stand. 12. Since the matter has come to this,⁵ whether he pay the penalty or we be slaves, let us show the valor of our fathers so that we may save the state.

LESSON 32.

1. As though this were a safeguard⁶ for you, he orders⁷ that the house be watched. 2. On that day, if it had been allowed me by (lit. through) my friends to come into the forum, a beginning of slaughter would have been made with⁸ me. 3. He asked one of those who were present the subject⁹ under (lit. of) discussion.¹⁰ 4. This field was much more valuable¹¹

Who of us thought Sulla innocent? Who of us aided any one of them? 8. In the hearing³ of the people, he said that none would live unless Caesar should be victorious.⁴ 9. Although (tametsi) it is hard, I can in some way spare him who accuses Caesar. 10. There is need of haste⁵; if we had exercised this before, we should now have no war. 11. But, since (quoniam) the state abounds in these things, let us pass⁶ to other (considerations). 12. Since (cum) you see that a man holding (lit. possessed⁷ of) this office did not doubt (but) that he should defend the innocence of Sulla, you ought to do the same for Hortensius.

A Latin Grammar.

By Professor CHARLES E. BENNETT, Cornell University. 12mo, cloth, 282 pages. Price, 80 cents.

IN this book the essential facts of Latin Grammar are presented within the smallest compass consistent with high scholarly standards. It covers not only the work of the preparatory school, but also that of the required courses in college and university. By omitting rare forms and syntactical usages found only in ante-classical and post-classical Latin, and by relegating to an Appendix theoretical and historical questions, it has been found possible to treat the subject with entire adequacy in the compass of 250 pages exclusive of Indexes. In the German schools, books of this scope fully meet the exacting demands of the entire gymnasial course, and those who have tried Bennett's Grammar find that they are materially helped by being relieved of the mass of useless and irrelevant matter which forms the bulk of the older grammars. All Latin texts for reading in secondary schools, recently issued, contain references in the notes to Bennett's Latin Grammar.

Professor William A. Houghton, Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine:

The Grammar proper is admirably adapted to its purpose in its clearness of arrangement and classification, and in its simplicity and precision of statement, giving definitely just what the pupil must know, and not crowding the page with a mass of matter that too often disheartens the young student instead of helping him. I trust it will come into general use, for I think for the reasons just given, and because of its moderate compass and attractive appearance, students are likely to get more practical grammatical knowledge out of it than they generally do from the larger grammars.

John F. Peck, Oberlin Academy, Oberlin, Ohio: Bennett's Latin Grammar was adopted as a text-book in Oberlin Academy in 1897. It is proving itself a very satisfactory text-book and increasingly popular. The teachers of Latin in Oberlin Academy are thoroughly satisfied with the book and find it exceedingly helpful in their work.

The Critic, Feb. 29, 1896. The book is a marvel of condensed, yet clear and forcible, statement. The ground covered in the treatment of forms and syntax is adequate for ordinary school work and for the use of freshmen and sophomores in college.

Appendix to Bennett's Latin Grammar.

By Professor CHARLES E. BENNETT, Cornell University. For university work. 12mo, cloth, 246 pages. Price, 80 cents.

THE purpose of this book is to give such information regarding the history and development of the Latin language as experience has shown to be of service to advanced students.

The subjects treated are the Latin Alphabet, Pronunciation, Hidden Quantity, Accent, Orthography, The Latin Sounds, Inflections, Adverbs and Prepositions, and Syntax. Of these subjects, those of Hidden Quantity, Inflections, and Syntax receive special attention; and the results of recent investigation are set forth fully and clearly, but in compact form.

Professor Edouard Wölfflin, in the Archiv für Lateinische Lexikographie und Grammatik. February, 1896. Auf geringem Raume ist viel wissenschaftliches zusammengedrängt, und zwar mit praktischem Geschicke; zwei längere Listen geben die lateinischen Wörter von bestrittener Quantität und Orthographie, wobei die Ansätze von Marx oft berichtigt sind. . . . Die deutsche Wissenschaft wird sich nur freuen dass das amerikanische Schulwesen ein so brauchbares Hilfsmittel gewonnen hat.

Professor Hermann Osthoff, University of Heidelberg: Steht auf der Höhe des heutigen Wissens.

Professor Harry Thurston Peck, Columbia College, N.Y.: It is no exaggeration to say that so compact, helpful, and practical a collection of indispensable information cannot be found elsewhere in any language whatsoever. Even in Germany, the home of classical encliridia, nothing has yet appeared that is so satisfactory. Professor Bennett seems to divine by instinct just what questions arise in the mind of the student, and he here answers them in advance in a delightfully lucid and simple fashion. . . . Everywhere the best authorities are cited; and it is certain that to many teachers, as well as students, the mere perusal of this little manual will open up many new vistas, and will put them in touch with the most scholarly doctrine of the day. In fact the book is one that no progressive instructor can afford to be without, as it summarizes an immense amount of information that is of the utmost practical importance.

BENNETT'S Latin Grammar and Appendix in one volume. 12mo, half leather, 282 + 246 pages. Price, $1.25.

Latin Composition.

By Professor CHARLES E. BENNETT, Cornell University. 16mo, cloth, 172 pages. Price, 80 cents.

THIS book has been prepared with the conviction that the primary function of Latin Composition in secondary schools is to extend and strengthen the pupil's knowledge of Latin grammar. Accordingly, the lessons are devoted mainly to exercises in applying the principles of the various case and mood constructions recognized in our Latin Grammars. In order that the writing of continuous discourse may not be neglected, passages of simple English narrative, involving the principles covered in the previous exercises, are frequently introduced.

Grammatical references are to Bennett, Allen & Greenough, and Harkness.

The illustrative examples given at the beginning of each lesson have been drawn with great care from Latin literature — mainly from Cicero's speeches. The English sentences set for translation into Latin have also, in most cases, been suggested by passages occurring in the works of classical authors.

J. Edmund Barss, Hotchkiss School, Lakeville, Conn.: I have been using Bennett's Latin Composition with a class reading Virgil. I have found it a thoroughly usable book, both with the author's and with other standard grammars; and I am especially pleased with the successful union of interest with practical fitness in the sentences.

Professor S. C. Mitchell, Richmond College, Va.: It is the most sensible and helpful book of its kind that has come into my hands.

The Quantitative Reading of Latin Poetry.

By Professor CHARLES E. BENNETT, Cornell University. 12mo, paper, 49 pages. Price, 25 cents.

BELIEVING that a more thorough study of the oral reading of Latin Poetry may prove a source of pleasure and profit, not only to the pupils but also to many teachers of the language, Professor Bennett has prepared this little monograph emphasizing the importance of the knowledge of quantities as well as of rhythm.

The Foundations of Latin.

A book for beginners. By Professor CHARLES E. BENNETT, of Cornell University. 12mo, cloth, 231 pages. Price, 90 cents.

THIS book differs materially from most of the present manuals for beginners in Latin. Its method is, first, to present the forms of inflection, and then to develop the principles of syntax, following in both cases, so far as possible, the usual order of the Latin grammars. Such rules of syntax as are needed for reading and writing simple sentences are given in the earliest lessons, so that the pupil has constant drill on the forms while acquiring them; but the systematic study of general syntax is postponed till the pupil shall have mastered the forms and shall be in a position to apply the rules.

The vocabulary of the Exercises consists of the 750 words in most frequent use by Cæsar and Nepos, and will serve equally well as an introduction to either author. The Latin sentences are for the most part taken directly from Cæsar's Commentaries, with such slight changes as may be needed to adapt them to the pupil's advancement.

The Exercises are followed by eighteen pages of easy and interesting selections for reading.

Frederic T. Farnsworth, Sanborn Seminary, Kingston, N.H.: I agree with the author in his preface that it is better to bring together "things that naturally belong together," and to have the first-year book follow substantially the order and form of the grammar. The later and fuller study of the grammar itself is greatly facilitated by a systematic arrangement such as that followed in this book.

F. P. Donnelly, S.J., College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass.: The book has been appropriately named. I have never seen in one volume so complete a presentation of all that is necessary for a beginner in Latin.

James Heard, Academy, Summit, N.Y.: I commend the work most heartily. It marks a return to the common-sense method of teaching Latin to beginners, and is a thoroughly practical book. I do not hesitate to place it in the front rank of books of its class.

C. K. Bartholomew, English and Classical School, Cincinnati, Ohio: We are well pleased with The Foundations of Latin now on trial.

Frank D. Haddock, Superintendent, Holland, Mich.: I am using Bennett's Foundations of Latin with great satisfaction.

Cæsar's Gallic War.

Revised Edition, with Indicated Quantities, Introduction, Notes, Vocabulary, Table of Idioms, Key to the English Pronunciation of Proper Names, Illustrations, and Maps. Edited by Professor FRANCIS W. KELSEY, University of Michigan. 12mo, half leather, 584 pages. Price, $1.25.

IN this revised edition many changes and additions have been made, rendering the book, without question, the best-equipped text of Cæsar's Gallic War published for school use.

The Introduction and Notes have been rewritten, the Vocabulary enlarged, a Key to the English Pronunciation of Proper Names added, several plans replaced, and the Table of Idioms, so valuable to beginners for drill on syntax is retained. The Notes have references to Bennett, Allen and Greenough, and Harkness (Complete Edition).

The Text has been reprinted from new plates which are cast from type larger than that used in the old book. The most important change in this new edition is the marking of the long vowels. This has been done in the belief that if pupils are taught to pronounce accurately in the first years of their Latin reading, and have enough practice in pronouncing, they will hardly experience difficulty afterward.

Two editions of the Text only, one with and one without marked quantities, have been prepared, and either of these will be furnished free to schools using the book.

William F. Bradbury, Principal of Latin School, Cambridge, Mass.: It is a work of art in every respect.

Dr. Richard M. Jones, Head-Master William Penn Charter School, Philadelphia, Pa.: I congratulate you, as the first in this country to embody the modern idea of a school edition of Cæsar, upon your pluck in determining to retain your place at the head of the Cæsar column, and upon the resources and enterprise which will enable you to stay there. I have, therefore, taken great pleasure in placing the book upon our order list for next autumn.

James B. Smiley, West High School, Cleveland, O.: In its revised form, Kelsey's Cæsar seems to me to be the best edition which we have. The typography is excellent and the marking of long vowels is an added improvement.

Selected Orations and Letters of Cicero.

With Introduction, Notes, and Vocabulary by Professor FRANCIS W. KELSEY. 12mo, half leather, 522 pages. Illustrated. Price, $1.25.

THE Orations given in this edition are the four against Catiline, those for the Manilian Law, Archias, Marcellus, and the fourth oration against Antony. These are edited with a view to showing their value as examples of oratory, rather than as offering mere material for grammatical drill. The student's attention is directed to the occasion and circumstances of their delivery, as well as to the motive and method of presenting the matter contained in them. Modes of legal procedure, the Constitution and form of government in Cicero's time, and the whole environment of the orator, are brought into clear view, and made a reality to the student.

The Letters are selected with reference to the light they shed on Cicero as a man rather than as a politician. They afford pleasant glimpses of his private life, and help to make real the pupil's conception of the times in which he lived. As material for short exercises for sight translation or rapid reading they will be found of special value.

A Table of Idioms and Phrases presents, in form convenient for use, constructions that deserve special attention.

The general introduction is divided into four parts. The first gives an account of Cicero as an orator, as a writer, and as a man. The second gives a summary of the orations, with the dates of their delivery and accounts of their causes and occasions. The third part is an essay on private correspondence among the Romans. The fourth part is an extremely useful tabular outline of the Roman government then existing. The notes contain references to the grammars of Bennett, Allen and Greenough, and Harkness (Standard Edition).

S. F. Cutler, Mixed High School, New York City: I can hardly speak too highly of Kelsey's Cicero. It is superior to any other edition that I have seen.

Professor J. E. Goodrich, University of Vermont: I do not see that anything has been omitted which such a text-book should supply. I shall be pleased to recommend it.

Selections from Ovid.

With an Introduction, Notes, and Vocabulary by Professor FRANCIS W. KELSEY. Illustrated. 12mo, half leather, 453 pages. Price, $1.25.

THIS volume has been prepared with especial reference to the needs of students who begin the reading of Latin poetry with Ovid. The selections, with a few exceptions, are short and complete in themselves. It is hoped that a considerable number of them will be found suitable for sight reading. In some cases the length of the more extended passages has been reduced by the omission of lines or passages of unusual difficulty or unequal interest. The text follows the readings of Riese or Merkel, with the change of a word or two occasionally to make the beginning of a selection more intelligible in the absence of the context.

As in the editions of Cæsar and Cicero by the same editor, no pains have been spared to make the book pleasing to the eye and useful to the student.

William C. Collar, Head Master, Latin School, Roxbury, Mass.: I am glad to see an edition containing so good and so varied a collection from Ovid's writings. The book seems to me to be a very conscientious piece of work, and I am particularly pleased with the frequent and happy quotations, in the notes, of passages from English poets.

Outline of Greek and Roman Mythology.

By Professor FRANCIS W. KELSEY. 12mo, paper, 40 pages. Price, 20 cents.

THIS is a brief but systematic outline of Greek and Roman Mythology, with a list of reference books. It is useful either as a help to students of classical literature, or as a starting point for the study of classic mythology.

Fifty Topics in Roman Antiquities.

By Professor FRANCIS W. KELSEY. 12mo, paper, 101 pages. Price, 50 cents.

THESE "Topics with References" are printed for convenience in assigning work in Roman Antiquities to university Latin students.

Sallust's Catiline.

Edited by JARED W. SCUDDER, of the Albany Academy, N.Y.
12mo, cloth, 245 pages. Price, $1.00.

THE fact that Sallust's Bellum Catilinae properly introduces Cicero's Orations against Catiline is becoming more and more widely recognized. This edition has been prepared with a view to enabling the pupil to get every possible benefit from such an introduction, not only through the valuable notes and explanatory matter, but particularly through the quotation, at the bottom of the pages, of parallel passages from Cicero. In the notes and vocabulary these passages are treated as the text. This feature adds to the book real value, as well as interest, for it gives the pupil opportunity to compare the two authors in points of style and syntax. The quantities are marked, and the notes, vocabulary, and introductory matter are clear, comprehensive, and helpful. The book includes a collection of Sallust's epigrams.

George H. Browne, The Browne and Nichols School, Cambridge, Mass.:

We have been using Scudder's Sallust in sheets with success, and we welcome the complete book. Our adoption of it is sufficient evidence of our approval. I especially commend the parallel extracts from Cicero, the analytical index, the marked quantities, the temperate introduction, and the adequate annotation. You have supplied a much needed textbook for "Third Year Latin," well printed, well edited, and well bound.

James Winne, High School, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.: The parallel passages from Cicero are most valuable, the compilation of epigrams is most stimulating. The whole text pleases me much.

R. A. Rideout, High School, Everett, Mass.: I have been very much pleased with Mr. Scudder's editorial work. I certainly believe in leading pupils to appreciate the literary merit of the author they are reading. . . . The parallel passages from Cicero add much to the interest and value of the book. . . . The collection of epigrams is very opportune, — an exceptionally pleasing feature.

B. W. Mitchell, Central High School, Philadelphia, Pa.: I am a firm believer in the possibility of bringing secondary pupils to recognize the literary value of such Latin and Greek classics as they may read. It is the only way to promote interest, and in interest lies the only path to success. This is constantly my aim in my own teaching and I consider Mr. Scudder's book a valuable aid.

Selections from Viri Romæ.

With Notes, Exercises, Maps, and a Vocabulary by Professor JOHN C. ROLFE, University of Michigan. 16mo, cloth, 312 pages. Price, 75 cents.

URBS ROMÆ VIRI ILLUSTRÉS is a compilation from Cicero, Livy, Valerius Maximus, and other Roman writers. It is admirably adapted to help the pupil over the difficult transition from the introductory Latin book to Cæsar or Nepos.

The advantage in its use lies in the fact that it is full of variety and interest, and that it gives the pupil a sketch of Roman history from Romulus to Augustus, in an attractive form, together with many allusions to the customs of Roman life.

In the present edition the quantities of all the long vowels, including "hidden quantities," are marked; exercises for translation of English into Latin, based on the text, are given.

Thirty-nine pages of the book have been prepared for reading at sight. The other selections are annotated with grammatical and explanatory notes. In the passages for sight reading, the meanings of such new words as cannot readily be inferred are given at the bottom of the page. The notes lay especial emphasis on grammatical constructions which are impressed on the pupil's mind by cross references. The text is mainly that of C. Holzer (Stuttgart, 1889), with a few changes in orthography and punctuation.

Isaac B. Burgess, The Morgan Park Academy, University of Chicago :

After considerable class-room use, I take pleasure in commending the edition of Viri Romæ by Professor John C. Rolfe. The notes and vocabulary show care and accuracy. The marking of all long vowels is very valuable in elementary work. The hints for translation into Latin admirably cover a good deal of ground in a little space, and the exercises for translation from English into Latin save a teacher much work.

George H. Browne, Browne and Nichols School, Cambridge, Mass. :

Every time I have looked over Rolfe's Viri Romæ I have admired the aim and method of its editor more and more, and cannot commend too highly the success he seems to me to have attained. After using, I expect to make the same report.

Virgil's Aeneid, Books I-VI, VIII, IX, and portions of the remaining books.

With Notes, Vocabulary, Map, Illustrations. Edited by DAVID Y. COMSTOCK, Principal of St. Johnsbury Academy, Vt. 12mo, half leather, 567 pages. Price, $1.40.

THIS school edition of the Aeneid is designed to furnish a helpful guide to the intelligent reading of the poem. It aims throughout to render all requisite aid to the pupil of average ability and preparation.

The Introduction contains a short outline of classical mythology, a brief presentation of the principles of prosody, suggestions as to the translation of Latin poetry, and explanation and illustration of grammatical and rhetorical figures.

The Text contains Books I-VI, VIII, IX, and brief selections from the other Books, thus enabling the student to secure a connected idea of the story of the Aeneid as a whole.

The Notes give aid of the right sort, in right measure, and at the right time. They avoid prolixity, dullness, and obscurity, and assume neither too much nor too little knowledge on the part of the student.

F. W. Atkinson, Principal of High School, Springfield, Mass.: I like the notes particularly well: they show a good deal of common sense, to say nothing of scholarship.

D. W. Lothman, Central High School, Cleveland, O.: I have examined with some care Comstock's Virgil, and I am pleased to say that I regard it as an excellent edition. The sections which have been added from the last Books of the Aeneid furnish excellent material for sight reading. . . . But the real merit of the book lies in the notes, which are compact and to the point, and ought to do much to get both pupils and teachers away from the usual stereotyped "school-boy translation" to real English.

W. P. Cope, Principal of High School, Hamilton, O.: I have examined it carefully, and I like it better than any other edition that I have seen. It is written to assist the pupil and not to display the learning of the author. . . . In short, I think Comstock's Virgil an ideal text-book.

Journal of Pedagogy, December, 1896: Altogether this edition by Mr. Comstock is one of the most satisfactory that has appeared in this country.

College Latin Series.

SELECTED LETTERS OF PLINY.

With an Introduction and Notes by Professor J. H. WESTCOTT, of Princeton University. 12mo, cloth, 326 pages. Price, $1.25.

The Introduction contains a Life of Pliny, a discussion of Pliny's Style, and a brief bibliography. Following the Notes, which are quite full, come two Appendices, one the Chronology of the Letters, the other a critical treatment of the text.

THE DIALOGUS OF TACITUS.

With an Introduction and Notes by Professor ALFRED GUDEMAN, of the University of Pennsylvania. 12mo, cloth, 201 pages. Price, $1.00.

THE AGRICOLA OF TACITUS.

With an Introduction and Notes by Professor ALFRED GUDEMAN. 12mo, cloth, 198 pages. Price, $1.00.

THE AGRICOLA AND GERMANIA OF TACITUS.

With Maps, Introduction, and Notes, by Professor ALFRED GUDEMAN. 12mo, cloth, 366 pages. Price, $1.40.

In the Dialogus is a scholarly discussion of the authorship of the treatise. The Introduction of the Agricola covers the "Life and Writings of Tacitus," "The Literary Character of the Agricola," and "The Style and Rhetoric of Tacitus." This introduction is reprinted in the Agricola and Germania, which contains also an introduction to the Germania, and two valuable maps, one of the British Isles, for the Agricola, and the other of Europe, with both ancient and modern names, for the Germania. The notes of all three of these volumes are unusual for the judicious amount and high quality of the help they offer to the student.

THE CAPTIVI OF PLAUTUS.

With Introduction and Notes by Professor H. C. ELMER, of Cornell University. 12mo, cloth, 231 pages. Price, $1.25.

Professor Elmer's introduction is brief but comprehensive, giving the student all necessary information on Plautus' life, his writings, metres, and language. It also touches on Roman dramatic performances, and the history of the text of the Captivi.

College Latin Series. *Continued.HANDBOOK OF LATIN INSCRIPTIONS.

By W. M. LINDSAY, M.A., Fellow of Jesus College, Oxford. 16mo, cloth, 134 pages. Price, $1.25.

The author states very clearly some of the fundamental principles of form changes in Latin, and gives a collection of inscriptions in illustration of these changes from the earliest period down to Imperial and Late Latin.

A Junior Latin Book.

With Notes, Exercises, and Vocabulary, by Professors JOHN C. ROLFE and WALTER DENNISON, of the University of Michigan. 12mo, half leather, 498 pages. Price, $1.25.

THIS book will appeal most forcibly both to those teachers who are accustomed to begin the course in Latin Reading with the difficult Gallic War, and to those who prefer to prepare the way to Cæsar by the use of some easier text. To the former it offers a book that can be begun long before their classes can read Cæsar—a distinct economy of time. To the latter it gives in a single carefully graded volume the varied and profitable material that has hitherto been available only by the purchase of several text-books—a distinct economy of means.

The text consists of Fables, Stories of Roman History based on Eutropius and Livy, extracts from Viri Romæ, seven Lives of Nepos, and Books I. and II. of the Gallic War. The book also contains exercises for translation into Latin, based on the text, and many good maps and plans.

J. C. Kirtland, Jr., Phillips Academy, Exeter, N.H. : We are using Rolfe and Dennison's Junior Latin Book with the class which began the study of Latin last September. The Roman history especially appealed to us, and we are not surprised to find by experience that it furnishes most satisfactory material for first reading.

J. Edmund Barss, Hotchkiss School, Lakeville, Conn. : The selections are, it seems to me, well adapted to provide a substitute for the traditional four Books of Cæsar. It is an admirably common-sense text-book.

J. R. L. Johnson, Piedmont Academy, Gordonsville, Va. : It is one of the most important contributions to the study of Latin which has appeared for years, and one which must inevitably attract the interest of all teachers, as it is admirably suited for the purposes for which it is intended.

Nathan B. Coy, Principal of Cutler Academy, Colorado Springs, Col. : After giving the Junior Latin Book careful inspection, I do not hesitate to pronounce it the very best book for second-year Latin with which I have any acquaintance.

Capt. C. W. New, St. John's Military Academy, Delafield, Wis. : I anticipate good results from the use of the Junior Latin Book. It is fitted for its purpose exactly, and forms a good substitute for four long Books of Cæsar.
